

Spokane Midwives Commitment to Quality Care

Spokane Midwives is committed to giving high quality care to each of our women as well as to their newborns. Our focus on safety and client service is demonstrated in a number of ways.

We screen potential clients with our risk guidelines before they are accepted and continue the risk assessment throughout their care. Also, we give written informed consents concerning client shared decision making actions.

We practice within our midwifery scope of practice and the generally accepted standards of care in our community. We consult with and/or refer out to a MD when conditions outside our scope of practice arise.

In addition, we maintain Professional Liability Insurance (medical malpractice) and hold current membership in Washington State's professional midwifery association (MAWS). We participate in formal Peer Review through this association on a regular basis as well as attend relevant seminars and course work to earn continuing education credits.

We are in HIPPA compliance with maintaining protection of client confidential information and privacy. Also, every client is given a written evaluation form so that we have input for improvement and a way to follow-up any complaints. We are constantly striving to improve our quality of care in order to deliver the best midwifery service to the women of Spokane who desire an out-of-hospital birth in either the home setting or at our licensed birth center.
